Taken completely by surprise.

Brewster's Millions

as a masterful romance may not excel that other story of "blended-love and episode" by McCutcheon, but it certainly equals it.

We've been through it and commend it with all our heart.

GOES TO BIRMINGHAM.

After a Brief Business Trip to Paducah.

Mr. E. L. Barber, president of the Central Construction Co., which is connected with the Paducah Home Telephone company, has gone to Birmingham, Ala., after a short stay here yesterday to have the property of the People's Independent Telephone company transferred to the Paducah Home Telephone company, which recently bought the former out. The transfer has practically been made and by the latter part of the week the new concern will have entire control. Mr. T. L. Gilford, of Wauson, O., has accepted a position as bookkeeper for the new company and has arrived to take his position.

Had Good Sport.

Dr. Horace Rivers, who has been hunting and fishing in Ballard county, returned this morning. He says he killed many squirrels and wild ducks and caught a large number of fish.

Final Wind-Up Sale

We have just received that consignment of Haviland China which we have been promising you—another shipment we were unable to stop and must therefore sell under the same terms as that other large part of our stock now adorning Paducah's homes.

These prices will indicate the sincerity of our statement that we are selling everything positively AT COST.

PINKERTON MEN ARRIVE ON SCENE

West Kentucky Coal Company Preparing to Operate Mines.

Will Have 400 Non-Union Men, It Is Claimed—Erection of Houses to Begin.

FIGHT TO A FINISH ASSURED

Sturgis, Ky., Oct. 26.—Sturgis is now the bustling scene of war, real or imagined, as was the case only one other time in its brief but eventful history—when Capt. Tom Blackwell's mythical tax army threatened to invade the citizens at the point of Winchester.

Quite a crowd went to the depot expecting the arrival of twenty armed guards from St. Louis, but failing to "show up" the curious were a trifle disappointed, while the mine workers were strengthened in the delusion that it was simply some more of Becker's "hot air" talk, but lo! yesterday the town awoke from not very pleasant dreams to face the stern reality of a score of Pinkertons the advance guard of an army of 400 non-union workmen, now being recruited in Missouri and Pennsylvania for service in the various collieries of the West Kentucky Coal company.

The guards caused considerable curiosity and no little comment. Vice-President Doss, of the United Mine Workers, also arrived from Central City and has been in conference with the local leaders. Work on the temporary quarters or barracks, near the shaft, to house the coming crew of miners will be started at once and the building of Gardner will be pushed with all reasonable haste.

Eighty new temporary houses will be commenced at once for the accommodation of the West Kentucky Coal company's laborers. The lumber to be used in them is of a character and to be used in a way that will not condemn it for its place in the regular town. The idea Superintendent Bucher has in this, is to give shelter for the immense number of men needed in the erection of the four hundred houses that will be commenced as soon as these are up and for the additional labor needed at the mines when he starts to running coal. The plan of the new town of Gardner shows a care and thoughtfulness in the buildings and their surroundings seldom seen with corporations of this kind. All of the four hundred houses will be neat, typical houses, with all necessary outbuildings and garden. A nice bank and office buildings, three large three-story commissary and store buildings and the machine shops will be put under way as soon as possible. The town will be lighted by electricity from their own plant.

FINE HOME

OF MR. DAVID DUNN DESTROYED BY FIRE AT SMITHLAND.

Caught From Defective Flue—The Loss Will Be $5,000, With Insurance.

The home of Mr. David A. Dunn, on the hill at Smithland, and finest residence in Livingston county, was destroyed by fire at 6 o'clock this morning. The blaze started from a defective flue in the kitchen, and there was no possible way to save the house after the flames got a start.

Neighbors ran to Mr. Dunn's assistance and much of his furniture was removed to a place of safety, but some of it was broken up or damaged beyond repair in getting it out.

Mr. Dunn and family escaped without injury. The house cost $5,000 and it is understood that this amount of insurance was carried by Mr. Dunn, but will not cover his loss.

Married in Christian.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 26.—Dr. Everett Johnson of Mobile, Ala., and Miss Lucile Sullivan, of Pembroke, were married and left on an extended trip to the west.

CIRCUS DAY BRINGS THE USUAL CROWD

The Parade Was Late But Was a Marvel in Itself.

The Circus is Back of the High School and Will Play to Capacity Here.

ONE OF LARGEST IN WORLD

There were many late dinners in Paducah today. It was all because of the circus. The circus arrived on time, but was late getting out the parade. It did well to give any parade at all, as for two days it has been in very muddy country, and the horses in places waded around in it up to their knees. Yesterday at Hopkinsville no parade could be given. The parade here at noon, however, was one of the longest and best ever seen.

Ringling Brothers undoubtedly have one of the biggest circuses in the world. Its parade is a revelation, and it requires fully thirty minutes for it to pass.

There are hundreds of strangers in the city and the crowd down town for fully two hours before the parade was immense. People could hardly pass except in the street. They all enjoyed the parade, especially the small boy, whose curiosity was satisfied by a view of more than the usual number of cages.

This afternoon several thousand people are enjoying the performance. Tonight the performance will no doubt be to capacity.

Many enjoy the menagerie tent. The giraffe cage was the most attractive of all and was always surrounded by a crowd.

One animal of a species supposed to be untamable, runs around the circus grounds the same as a dog and few paid any attention to it, thinking that it was a peculiarly shaped dog. This was a young hyena, and it is so gentle that the children visiting the menagerie are allowed to fondle it. This hyena was raised upon a bottle and cooked meat, by a German animal trainer of the show. He is experimenting with it, and so far the whelp has shown none of the ferociousness of the hyena, but the trainer says that once the animal should taste blood, it would be as savage as any of the rest.

"For the time immemorial," said Otto Ringling, who is always with the show, "there is an impression that the night performance of the show is different from that of the afternoon—that portion of the day performance is cut out in order to get away earlier. This is not true with the Ringling show. If anything our night performance is better than the day, for it allows the Field of the Cloth of Gold performance to be put on with a better lighting effect. We are never in such a rush to get away that we cannot give a full and complete performance every night."

This is Ringling's first visit to Paducah in ten or twelve years. Always with a fine show, they now have one of the largest in the world, add circus.

The fact that the circus is showing back of the railroad shops was gratifying to the teachers in the High School building. It is an education in many ways to watch the operation of pitching circus tents and the children attending the High School building got the full benefit of the proceedings from start to finish.

The circus trains began coming in early this morning. There is a total of 77 cars and the train was run in four sections. The canvasmen began working early and the show grounds were filled with school children. They watched the work of building the monstrous tents from start to finish and there was a general confusion among the school children when the bell rang to call them to their studies.

The old circus grounds in the rear of the railroad hospital have been cut up into lots, the Harahan plat, and this made it necessary that the circus seek new grounds. The tents were pitched in the rear of the railroad shops, the only place that could be secured. This will make it more convenient to all.

The morning trains from Fulton, Cairo and Hopkinsville were crowded with visitors to see the circus. The I. C. ordered the accommodation train to Fulton and to Carbondale, Ill., held one hour—until 4:20 o'clock—in order to accommodate visitors who desire to return home before night.

Ringling Brothers' great canvas pavilions constitute a veritable city of tents. The mammoth stage for the spectacular production of "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," which is presented in the hippodrome amphitheater, is the largest ever constructed and the tent is absolutely impervious to rain.

Ringling Brothers' shows employs 1,280 men, women and children; have 650 horses, use 77 double length cars, exhibit a monster herd of forty elephants in the largest menagerie on earth, and have a spread of canvas that covers fifteen acres of ground.

KENTUCKY NEWSLETS

Death in Graves.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 26.—Mr. J. Frank Sullivan died of dropsy at his home two miles east of the city. He was a farmer and had been sick a long time.

Shot 8-Year-Old Girl.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 26.—Because they called him names, Tom Varble fired both barrels of a shotgun into a crowd of school children at Laketown schoolhouse, seriously wounding Ben Waite, aged eight. Varble was arrested.

Died at Age of 96.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Clyde Conyers, aged ninety-six years, died at her home in this county of old age, leaving several children, many grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. Her brother, Dr. Spears, of Oldham county, is in his 100th year.

Natives of Tennessee.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 26.—The Rev. Richard T. Bayless, pastor of the Mulberry Presbyterian church, at Shelbyville, died of typhoid fever at the Gray street infirmary here. He was a young minister of great promise, and was a graduate from the Southern Presbyterian seminary here last May. He was a native of Tennessee, where his father, mother and several sisters and brothers reside.

Killed His Father.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 26.—John Gooch, 25 years old, living in Pulaski county, went to a store in his neighborhood and purchased a double-barreled shotgun. Going home he went to the barn, where his aged father was at work and emptied both barrels into his body, killing him instantly. The young man has been in the insane asylum, but was dismissed as cured. The deed was doubtless committed in a period of aberration.

No Match For Woman.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Lizzie Ashurst yesterday had Magistrate J. T. Farmer and Constable Joe Miller under lock and key for three hours until they agreed on a compromise of a claim against her which they had gone to her home to settle. They went armed with warrants to take some furniture sold her by the Home Furnishing company, and she refused to give the property into their hands, locking the door, and calling on the police to eject them. After remaining prisoners for three hours they agreed on a compromise.

Marshall Field Declares That City Ownership is Only an Idle Dream

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 26.—American municipalities are too saturated with graft for municipal ownership to succeed. Such is the opinion of Marshall Field, who returned from Europe with his bride.

City operation of public utilities, according to Mr. Field's observations made in European cities, would be a failure if tried in America.

Mr. Field, it is known, does not believe the system of municipal ownership in operation in the British Isles is as successful as private ownership and operation would be, but he refused to commit himself further than the statement that the political conditions surrounding municipal administrations in the United States make even the city management that is practiced in Scotland and England an impossibility in America.

"When we have good municipal government it will be time enough to talk about municipal ownership," said Mr. Field. "There is no use saying anything now. I would only be called a kicker."

Discussing his trip abroad, Mr. Field said:

"Europeans have an idea that many of our laws are badly executed, and in this opinion I think they are justified. Much of the corruption in public life and dishonesty in business affairs that have come to light recently are due to laxity on the part of public officials in enforcing the laws.

"Laws are placed on the statute books only to become dead letters. Blackballing measures are passed by legislative bodies, with no expectation that they will be enforced. By the negligence of public servants in this regard private persons are tempted to take advantage of the law for their own profit."

"As a result of your observations in Europe, do you think municipal ownership would succeed here?" he was asked.

"No, it would be impossible under the present conditions of our cities," replied Mr. Field.

"Do you mean political conditions, such as the prevalence of graft?"

"Yes."

"Are European cities better governed than American cities?"

"Well, I should say they are! I do not think there is any graft at all in England."

"What do Europeans think of our insurance scandals?"

"What must they think?" replied Mr. Field. "The insurance investigations have attracted much attention in Europe, and have impressed the people there with the notion that none of our laws is enforced."

Mr. Field said President Roosevelt was highly praised abroad for his action in bringing about peace between Japan and Russia, and that the cessation of hostilities will now open the Orient to American enterprises of all kinds.

England, he said, is just entering into a period of prosperity—the first she has experienced since the African war.

MASS MEETING

TO BE HELD AT THE KENTUCKY THEATER NEXT SUNDAY.

It is Expected That Two Speakers From Another City Will Be Secured.

It is announced today that another mass meeting will be held by the trades unions next Sunday afternoon at the Kentucky theater at 2:30 o'clock in order that the people of Paducah may hear more about the strike, car men's troubles.

The mass meeting last Sunday at the city hall was so large that many people could not get in, hence the theater was secured in order to have more room.

It is expected to have two speakers from abroad here, and local speakers will also be on hand to address the meeting. If the two speakers telegraphed today cannot come, others will be secured.

A special invitation will be extended to the merchants and ladies of Paducah to attend.

The grass widow should make hay while the sun shines.
